ENTIRE AUSTRIAN CABINET RESIGNS; "DOUBLE DANGERS"

New Cabinet is Formed Eliminating The Hapsburg Nation

SCHOENBURG IS OUT
Stalwart Enemies of Nazism
Are Placed in the Key
Positions

VIENNA, July 11—Ruling against the double dangers of Hapsburg restoration and Nazi conquest, Chancellor Engelbert Dollfuss today presented to Wilhelm Miklas, the resignation of the entire Austrian cabinet. Dollfuss then proceeded, at Miklas' requests, to form a new cabinet eliminating the Hapsburg nation and again placing stalwart enemies of Nazism in the key posts.

Left out of the new cabinet was General Prince Schoenbourg, former Minister of Defense and long an exponent of Hapsburg restoration.

Interviewed by International News Service, Chancellor Dollfuss said: "I want to point out the Austrian foreign policy is unchanged from our main principle of independence. As far as internal affairs go we must take severe measures against the enemies of the state. I am remaining Chancellor, Foreign Minister, Minister of Agriculture, Minister of Public Security and Minister of Defense. My old friend, Major Fey will represent me as State Commissar with special powers."

BERLIN, Germany, July 11—The French army has been heavily reinforced on the German frontier. Louis Barthou, French Foreign Minister in London appears already to have gained considerable increased sympathy for his plan to weave a steel net around Germany.

These two facts today remained depressing reflections for this country, after 12 days have passed without the public's learning any new details of the plot which cost the lives of an undetermined number of Germans and without any list of the dead.

But of the two major facts, the second is by far the more important. The French army reinforcements were precautionary measures and no sober observer believes the French ready to attack Germany this moment. Barthou's significantly successful diplomatic labors appear to Germany's leaders today much more dangerous, for if Barthou succeeds with his plan, Germany will be bound hand and foot, so far that in the eyes of the French, no preventative war will be necessary in order to render her harmless.

International News Service learned today that Barthou's complete plan consists of three parts.

First, a renewal of the old or "west" Locarno pact with the Soviet union as a new guarantor of the Franco-German frontier.

Second, is the proposed new "east" Locarno pact among France, Soviet-Union, Poland, Czechoslovakia and the Baltic states, with Germany, too, if she will enter it.

Third is the proposed "Mediterranean" Locarno Pact, among France, Italy, Czechoslovakia, Roumania, Greece and Turkey.

Fish and Game Association Undecided On Outing

Plans were discussed last evening at the meeting of the Bristol Fish and Game Protective Association in the rooms at Mill street and the Highway for the annual outing but no definite action could be taken until a suitable location is obtained.

The proposition was left to the discretion of the members and subject to the call of the officers, should the necessary location be suggested.

The fish committee reported placing 10 cans of yellow perch in the Mill Pond and at Maple Beach.

One hundred and seven members to date had renewed their membership and 10 new members were admitted.

The Great Swamp Fish, Game and Forestry Association extended an invitation to their outing to be held Thursday, July 26, at Bowman's Hill.

MORRISVILLE COUNCIL TO SUE TROLLEY CO.

Instructs Solicitor to Proceed and Collect $600 Due
Borough

FAVOR NEW BUS LINE

MORRISVILLE, July 11—Borough council has voted to instruct Borough Solicitor Willard Curtin to proceed at once against the Pennsylvania and New Jersey Railway Company for the collection of more than $600 due the borough from the cost of the canal bridge at Pennsylvania Avenue at Union street. This company is the corporation which operates the trolley car line between here and Trenton. The firm has also been negotiating with the borough for the operation of a bus line between here and Trenton, but the members of council have pointed out the many promises made from time to time which they alleged have not been kept.

The councilmen declare the amount the trolley company owes the borough is long delinquent.

Council voted unanimously to approve the application made by Isadore Richmond, of Trenton, to operate buses between Trenton and Morrisville.

A hearing of this application will be held by the Public Service Commission in Philadelphia on Thursday morning, and members of Council will appear as witnesses in favor of Mr. Richmond. Councilmen are urging citizens, who are anxious for good service, to volunteer as witnesses and attend the hearing.

Mr. Richmond, who appeared before Council said he will furnish two new buses and operate at a 20-minute schedule with a six-cent fare. He also said that he will arrange his route to suit Council which will give service to both the north and southern ends of the borough. The buses will probably use the Calhoun street bridge and cover both Pennsylvania avenue and Delmor avenue. The southern end of the borough will be served as buses will go south as far as Delaware or Cleveland avenue. Mr. Richmond has also promised to employ Morrisville help, store his buses in a Morrisville garage, and maintain an office and waiting room here.

The question of the removal of the canal bridge on West Bridge street also had the attention of the councilmen. They voted to have the solicitor proceed with a complaint to the Public Service Commission, asking for the removal of the span. All councilmen favored the action and it was pointed out that the canal hill is one of the worst menaces on the Lincoln Highway between New York and Philadelphia. Aside from members of council there were a number of citizens who expressed a strong desire that the bridge be removed. Those who spoke in favor of the removal included Oscar Wildman, Albert McClenaghan and Herbert White.

Councilmen John Sumner, Paul Nichols, John Bleasdale and Elwood Kohl also spoke strongly in favor of the removal of the span.

Richard Dougherty, Jr., 559 Linden street, is spending a few weeks with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dougherty, Blackwood, N. J.

DELAWARE RIVER IS BECOMING MORE ACTIVE

Several Sea-Going Ships Sail
Past Here En Route To Trenton, N. J.

MORE ARE EXPECTED

Passage of sea-going vessels through the Delaware River here enroute to Trenton, N. J., is increasing. With the completion of the deepening of the channel it is believed more vessels will steam up and down the river.

The S. S. Sunewco will steam past here today enroute to the Pacific Coast.

The vessel was chartered by the Pacific Coast Direct Line as a substitute for the S. S. Hanley, regular line ship, which has been tied up on the West Coast on account of the waterfront strike.

About July 20, Trenton, will be visited by the S. S. Delaware, of the Scandinavian-American Line, which sailed last week from Oslo, Norway, carrying about 1,500 tons of raw materials for Trenton manufacturers.

Another cargo of raw material is being imported on the Hamburg-American Line freighter, S. S. Eifel, expected at Trenton about the twenty-ninth of the month. Tonnage for Trenton on this ship will be more than 2,000.

Besides these ocean bookings, fertilizer and other general cargo is scheduled to be unloaded at Trenton from smaller craft during the month.

FINED $10 FOR DEMANDING Return of Tools He Stole

John Lombardo, Pond street, was fined $10 and costs this morning for disorderly conduct.

Lombardo, three or four years ago, was arrested for stealing electric drills in Bristol Township. At that time, according to Chief of Police Jones and Bucks County Detective Anthony Russo, Lombardo admitted his part in the theft of the tools.

The tools were recovered and when the owner could not be found were disposed of according to law.

Today Lombardo visited the office of Bucks County Detective Russo and argued about the return of the tools. He, according to Russo, acted in a disorderly manner. Lombardo was arrested and given a hearing before Justice of Peace James Guy.

The woman was arrested and taken to a police station, while the patrolman was rushed to the Jewish Hospital, where efforts were being made to save his life.

POOR CROP OUTLOOK

Harrisburg, July 11—Pennsylvania farmers today were given an unpromising outlook for their crops in a report issued by the Federal State Crop Report Service which showed weather conditions, so far this season, have been unfavorable in all sections of the State, except the southeast.

The report said the condition of most crops as of July 1st was less than the record for that date. Most fruit crops prospects were the poorest in years. Some crops slightly benefited by several rains during the latter part of June which partly shattered the severe drought of the north-west.

LABOR DISPUTES DECREASE

Moser, director of the Bureau of Mediation, Department of Labor and Industry, showed 7,999 less workers were involved in labor disputes during May than in preceding months. Workers involved in strikes in May numbered 16,169 as against 23,866 in April, according to Moser.

HOLLAND TWIRLS TEAM TO A 4 TO 2 VICTORY

Bristol A. A. Wins Over The Hibernians and Takes
First Place

KELLER IN GOOD FORM

Aided by three double-plays, Wilson Holland pitched the Bristol A. A. team to a 4-2 victory over the Hibernians last night on Leedom's field. The win enabled the A. A. team to take the top-notch position in the Lower Bucks County League.

Holland pitched hard for the victory but was aided by three double-plays and some wild base-running of the Big Green and failure to catch the manager's signals. Besides the trio of twin-killings, the Hibernians had four runners caught off bases and put out when trying to advance.

It wasn't the fault of Ralph Keller that the Hibs lost. Keller hurled in fine style. His flinging would have captured an ordinary twilight match, but last night's seemed to be extraordinary. Keller was banged for eight hits, but five of these came in the last two innings.

The A. A. scored its first tally in the second. DeRisi singled to left and was forced at second by Heftman. Forrest singled to left and Heftman stopped at third. Choma's grounder was fumbled by Keller, but Dougherty recovered the ball in time to throw out the runner at first. Heftman scoring. Holland's bouncer was deflected to Downing whose throw got the batsman at first.

The Hibs took a 2-1 lead by counting twice in the sixth. Hines drew a walk. Downing hit to Holland who attempted at a double-play was spoiled by Heftman. Hines going to third. Downing was thrown out trying for.

CADETS WILL RAISE SUM TO ATTEND CONVENTION

They Twice Won

COLLECT RECORDS

With a debt of $1350 for new uniforms being removed through untiring efforts, the American Legion Cadets of Robert W. Bracken Post are starting from "scratch" to raise funds sufficient to take the corps to the state American Legion convention next month.

The marvelous piece of work, that of wiping their slate clean of the $1350 held against the corps for new uniforms since August 18th last, is a splendid accomplishment, the funds being raised through benefit affairs, donations from friends, and through membership in the Cadet Booster Association.

Harry Burbank, commander of the Cadets, has contracted with the RCA Victor Company, of Camden, N. J., to serve as that company's authorized agent in this territory to collect all Victrola records possible. Only Victor records may be turned in to this company, and for each old record thus returned the Cadets will receive a certain percentage. Certain substances in the records can be used again; and the Cadets are hoping to clear a sum sufficient to take the group to Erie. The territory in which collections will be made will be in Bristol, Tullytown, Edgely, Croydon, Cornwells Heights, Edgington, and outlying sections covered by the Bracken Post. A plea is made by the Cadets for their friends to save such records for them.

The state convention will occur in Erie on August 16th, 17th and 18th, and at that time the Cadets will again defend the state championship which they won in 1932 and 1933.

QUESTION TWO MEN IN CONNECTION WITH ROBBERY OF MOOSE

Pair Later Released As Police

Connection

SMASHED DOOR LOCKS

Were Determined To Gain An Entrance To Place Despite
Locks and Bars

Two Trenton men were held for questioning early today, but later discharged in connection with the robbery of the Moose Home, here, early yesterday morning.

Police are convinced that the two men had no connection with the robbery.

The Moose Home was entered early yesterday morning and loot valued at about $750 was taken.

The thief or thieves were determined to gain an entrance to the building as they tried several entrances before succeeding.

The loot taken was $400 in cash, cigars, cigarettes and other merchandise.

An effort was first made to force two windows on the river side of the property. These, however, were so securely barred that the effort was a failure. Then windows on the other side of the building were tried as well as the cellar door. The cellar door is built of steel and resisted any effort to break through.

Finally a screen was broken out of the enclosed porch, then doors were forced open. Two locks on hallway doors were smashed and three locks on the inside cellar door were broken.

The loot was quickly scooped up and hauled away.

FLIGHT TO ALASKA

Speculation apropos the forthcoming mass flight of 10 fast army bombing planes from Washington to Alaska and return concerns the international aspect of the thing rather than its aeronautical purposes. The public will follow the flight in the newspapers and news reels with the usual interest but the conversation will deal mainly with what the war department is thinking of and what Japan and Russia will think about it.

It is a foregone conclusion that Japanese jingoes will interpret the flight as an open threat against Japan and another move on the part of Washington toward American supremacy on the Pacific. Everything Uncle Sam does anywhere on the Pacific has some ulterior military motive in the imagination of the Japs.

War department heads make no secret of the fact that the air armada will map routes, locate landing fields and otherwise give a thought to Alaskan defenses. Asia is not so far from Alaska that Uncle Sam can leave his territory unprotected.

This year's naval and air maneuvers staged by Uncle Sam should have one of two results: Japan will either take the hint and join in disarmament plans or she will take fright and bankrupt herself with costly armaments.

The 10 U. S. air corps planes will demonstrate the facility with which Uncle Sam can speed protection to his Alaskan outposts at the first warning of danger. The corps has proved much more proficient in carrying bombs than in carrying mail.

PUSH THE PROBE

Secretary Dern might have been more specific in his charge that the congressional investigation of purchases by the war department is causing "serious impairment" of national defense.

He intimated that the army's $10,000,000 motorization program was being held up by the investigation. Why this was the case he failed to explain.

Representative Goss a member of the committee, denied that the program was being delayed by the probe. "They can go ahead and buy anything at any time they want to," he said. "We have not asked them to hold up the awarding of a single motor contract."

If irregularities of any kind have been practiced in connection with the awarding of army contracts, the fact ought to be brought out and the guilty punished. The head of the war department should desire this, even at the possible cost of a temporary delay in carrying out the motorization program.

Large expenditures by the army are in prospect. It is important that graft and waste be guarded against and that the department receive full value for its money.

If the neck inherit the earth, there is a glorious future for the American taxpayer.

"DEATH SONG"

by JOAN CLAYTON AND MALCOLM LOGAN

SYNOPSIS

Seifert Vail, the most unpopular patient at exclusive Sherwood Forest Sanatorium, is murdered. Two wounds are found on the body; one apparently from a sharp weapon and the other, a dull, rusty instrument. Dr. John Calvert and Mark Hillyer, playwright and patient, agree that the wounds could have been caused by a pair of scissors. Felipa, the maid, discovered the body when she went into Vail's room to turn off the phonograph. Vail, a former opera singer, broken-hearted over the death of his wife, had a habit of repeatedly playing the record "Waiting For You," sung by himself. Dr. Calvert claims Vail had been dead an hour before the phonograph started playing. Vail shared a cottage with Willis Clendening, Milton Cross and James Ruxton. Ruxton's nephew, Loren, and Dr. Calvert are rivals for the affections of Sue Faraday, Mark's nurse. Ruxton had changed rooms with Vail the day before the crime because the former's room had a private entrance and Vail expected a visitor he wanted to receive secretly. A letter the victim received from New York is missing. Sheriff Finn asks Felipa how she knew Vail had been murdered when he had been covered and the wounds were not visible. She appears to be hiding something and, next morning, does not appear at breakfast.

CHAPTER XIII

"Are you sure Felipa's not in her room?" I asked.

"I looked in before breakfast," Clendening said.

"I began to feel uneasy."

"What time does she usually have breakfast?" I asked.

"At some ungodly hour," he announced. "She gets up about 6.30, makes her bed and is back from breakfast, usually, before any of us are up. I've never known her to be late before."

"Do you mind if I call the office and find out whether she's in the servants' dining room?"

The two men looked at me curiously. The color began to drain from Cross's face. Clendening nodded a silent assent, and I picked up the telephone. The clerk on duty in the lobby promised to inquire about Felipa and call me back. I sat down beside the telephone and was waiting for it to ring when James Ruxton returned from breakfast. He raised his eyebrows as he saw me.

"Good morning," I said. "Have you seen Felipa this morning, Mr. Ruxton?"

He thought for a moment and then shook his head. "No, I have not."

He glanced at Clendening and Cross and a perplexed frown appeared on his face. "Isn't she here?" he asked.

"No," I said.

Dr. Calvert came up on the porch and entered the living room. He saw immediately, from our troubled faces, that something was wrong.

"What's the matter?" he demanded.

The telephone rang and I picked up the receiver quickly. The clerk said, "Felipa hasn't been in the dining room this morning. Is she—"

I did not wait to hear his question. I turned around and said, "Felipa hasn't been seen this morning."

Dr. Calvert almost ran to her room. "The little fool!" he muttered. Clendening sprang to his feet. "She's run away!" he cried. "I might have known she would!"

We could hear the physician hastily pulling out the drawers of her bureau. In a moment he came out into the living room. He said, "Some of her clothes seem to be gone."

Clendening walked to her open door and looked in. He turned to us with a puzzled expression.

"Did you see anything on the table?" he asked Dr. Calvert.

"Nothing except her alarm clock," the doctor answered.

Clendening, frowning, passed his hand over his eyes.

"That's funny," he said. "I looked in her room when the breakfast trays came, and I'm sure there was something under the clock—a piece of paper. It caught my eye because it was fluttering in the breeze."

The doctor shook his head. "It wasn't there when I went in. Maybe it blew on the floor."

We were all gathered in the doorway by then. Dr. Calvert got down on his hands and knees and looked under the bed and the bureau. He arose, dusting his hands, and shook his head.

Mark was suddenly alert. "No," he said. "What is it?"

"Felipa's disappeared," I said.

"No!" he cried. Sue looked startled and surprised.

"She ran away last night," I continued, and I told them what had happened at the cottage that morning. When I had finished, Mark nodded slowly.

"Of course, the sheriff didn't think of having her watched, even though he knew she was frightened and lying," he said.

"He probably drove her away with his bullying," Sue said indignantly.

"Have you heard whether they've found her, Loren?" Sue asked.

"Nothing there," he said. "You must have been mistaken."

"Look!" Clendening said. "The window!"

I followed his pointing finger. The table, on which the alarm clock was still ticking, was directly in front of one of the windows and the curtain was blowing gently into the room.

"The screen's raised!" Clendening cried.

I noticed then that there was two feet of space between the window sill and the bottom of the screen.

When I arrived at Mark's room, promptly at 10 o'clock, I found him and Sue engaged in an animated discussion of Vail's murder. To be more accurate, Mark was discussing it and Sue was listening.

"Hi!" Mark said, grinning at me. "How's the assistant sleuth?"

"Fine," I said. "Hello, Sue. I see she's broken down your resistance."

She smiled and said, "I can't prevent his talking, can I?"

"Listen to her," Mark jeered. "Pretending she's just humoring me! You know darn well you're just as interested as anyone in the sanatorium. You wouldn't be human if you weren't."

Sue became serious. "I am interested, of course," she said, "but it isn't amusing to me, as it seems to be to you. It frightens me."

"Nobody's going to bump you off, sweetheart," Mark said. "There's no reason to be scared."

"Perhaps not," she said. She stood up abruptly and said, "Don't you want to go out on the porch?"

"No," he said, "it's going to be another hot day, and it's cooler inside."

"Have you heard the latest?" I asked.

"But what about the paper on the table?" Mark said. "Did you see it, Bob?"

I shook my head. "I didn't get a look at the room until Dr. Calvert had searched it. Clendening was the only one who saw the paper, if there was one."

"Hmm," Mark said. "That's something more to think about. Have they found any trace of the girl?"

"I don't know. Nobody will talk. I saw one of Finn's deputies driving toward the village."

"Going to see if she got a train there last night," Mark commented. "Well, I wish Finn luck. He's going to need it."

There was a knock on the door and Loren Ruxton's voice outside called, "Are you decent?"

"No, but come in anyway," Mark said.

Loren looked very cool and handsome in his white linen suit. He smiled at us—particularly at Sue—and said, "Bet you a dollar I know what you were talking about."

"No takers," said Mark. "Have you heard about Felipa?"

Loren nodded. "Yes. Things happen so fast here, I'm dizzy."

"Have you heard whether they've found her, Loren?" Sue asked.

"Gunk without a trace," he said. "The sheriff would be tearing his hair, if he had any hair. The station master swears she didn't take the 10.37 train last night or the 5.03 this morning, and if she went to the village, she walked the whole five miles, because none of the taxi drivers took her. I hear Finn's asked the New York police to look for her."

Golf, too, has its Business Moments

"HEAD DOWN, eye on the ball." When this admonition to yourself brings the reward of a zinging drive up the fairway, a beautiful mashie shot to the green or a twenty-foot putt right into the cup . . . it's then that the real thrill of the game begins to seep into your veins; the worries of state give way to the pleasant concern of lowering your score; while the fresh air and the exercise pay dividends in health and mental fitness for the battles of life.

"Head down, eye on the ball." But keep your eye also on that other phase so productive of added pleasure—the possession of up-to-date equipment.

August is golf's mid-season. Sales of golfers' requisites are on or imminent. That set of matched irons, that swanky new-fangled bag, those comfortable spiked moccasin-tops, or those look-the-part-of-a-golfer togs—all are beckoning to you from the stores in this city.

Keep your "head down"—and keep the cost of your golf down too. Keep your "eye on the ball"—and on the golfing-supplies advertisements in this newspaper. Shrewd buying—the business phase of your golf—is at hand. Cash in.

P. S.—There are good bargains, too, in equipment for tennis, swimming, camping, fishing, touring.

PRIVATE BALL GIVEN BY LADY DETERING IS BRILLIANT AFFAIR

By Nadia de Beaud
(L. N. S. Fashion Correspondent)
PARIS—(INS)—The most brilliant private ball of the Paris season was given by Lady Detering, the attractive Russian wife of the famous oil magnate, at the Hotel Crillon. The salons were decorated in field flowers, which the hostess prefers above all others, and the entertainment was provided by the Monte Carlo Ballet Russe company. Rarely does Paris see such elegance as was displayed that evening.

Lady Detering wore a white satin gown, very plain, with loops of the material shirred near the hem on the back of the skirt. A lei of cornflowers with a strand hanging down the back gave the only touch of color. It was her diamonds which attracted attention: a coronet of single stones, each about two-carat, half a dozen two-inch diamond bracelets on each arm. A diamond brooch and pendant earrings completed the dazzling picture.

NEWLYWED HOSTESS WEARS BLACK WOOL GOWN AT RECEPTION

By Nadia de Beaud
(L. N. S. Fashion Correspondent)
PARIS—(INS)—The surprise wedding of Carlton Gauld, of Crawfordsville, Ill., the only American to be regularly engaged in a French opera house, to the Baroness de Wardener, the former Miss Pearce of Albuquerque, N. M., was the occasion for a charming reception, given in honor of the newlyweds by Miss Alice Tully, whose father was a New York State Senator.

The hostess, known for her elegance, wore a black light woolen gown with short sleeves, the only decorations of which were narrow bands of closely shirred material. These were laid cunningly on the sleeves, around the neck, decorated the bodice and finished off the skirt.

Mrs. Gauld had a black skirt with a knee overblouse in embroidered white silk, the sleeves of which were long and close fitting. A large brimmed hat added the finishing touches.

STATE NEWS

SCRANTON — (INS) — Health authorities thwarted the avowed intention of "Iron Man" Bruce to remain "buried" alive until the soldiers' bonus is paid. The living "corpse" was routed out of his coffin in the window of a beer garden because of the poor sanitary conditions.

YORK — (INS) — Sanitary Officer W. C. Craver is receiving frantic requests from besieged residents for aid in combatting an army of fleas that suddenly descended on a section of the city.

The hot weather was believed responsible for the sudden epidemic of the insects.

One complainant told Craver he was forced to abandon his house out of safety for his family.

SCRANTON — (INS) — Constable Abraham Jenkins was the only person arrested for violating the city's 1927 ordinance banning fireworks on the Fourth of July.

He was taken into custody by Patrolman Anthony Bastavage and posted $10 for a police court hearing.

YORK — (INS) — The furnishings of the residence of Daniel P. Lefan, former Representative from the 22nd Congressional district, used at times by a long list of political notables, including former Presidents Theodore Roosevelt and William H. Taft, were sold recently at public auction.

HARRISBURG — (INS) — An apparent "loop hole" in the State Motor Vehicle Code has permitted all-night parking on all unmarked streets in Harrisburg.

The Dauphin County Court in an opinion written by Judge Frank B. Wickersham held that it is illegal for city police to tag automobiles parked in the streets all night unless warning signs are erected at each intersection.

Under the Vehicle Code, local ordinances not covered by the code must be posted at every street intersection. Because of the prohibitive cost, estimated at between $30,000 and $40,000, city council has refused to erect the signs.

HULMEVILLE CAPTURES THIRD STRAIGHT GAME

HULMEVILLE, July 11—Hulmeville A. A. captured its third straight win of the second half of the Lower Bucks County League here last night, eking out a close 2-1 victory over the home club.

It was the former Langhorne High School twirler, Stan Vanzant, that set down the locals for their third straight defeat. Vanzant allowed four hits and kept them well scattered. He struck out nine and should have chalked up a shut-out victory had it not been for an error of commission by Afflerbach.

Both teams scored their tallies in the second. Hulmeville opened the frame by counting twice. Afflerbach led off with a double. He was singled home by Black. Black was sacrificed to second by Harrison and scored on Still's double to center.

For Parkland, Williams socked a single. He advanced to second when Foster drew a pass. Foster was forced at second by Hague, Williams pulling up at third. Matazaro then hit to short who threw to the plate to block the run. But Afflerbach pulled a sort of a honor, for somehow or the other he failed to touch the runner going in although he had plenty of time to do it. Afflerbach explained afterwards that he thought the bases were loaded.

On Thursday night, Hulmeville will play the Hibernians on Leedom's field.
